He Puāwaitanga – A Time to Celebrate

Tēnā koe,

He Puāwaitanga is one of the most significant moments in the journey of our tauira – a time to reflect on the challenges overcome, the knowledge gained, and the future that now lies ahead. It's a privilege to join you, your whānau, classmates, and kaiako in celebrating this incredible milestone.

He Puāwaitanga means 'to come to fruition', and represents not just the completion of your studies, but the growth and transformation you have experienced along the way. Today is a testament to your resilience, determination, and commitment to your goals. Whether your journey has taken months or years, you have persevered through challenges and emerged stronger. For that, we acknowledge and celebrate you.

We've long believed that education is transformative, and our vision, "He takapau mātauranga, he whānau huarewa—whānau transformation through education," speaks to the impact learning has beyond the individual. When one person succeeds, their whānau, hapū, and iwi benefit too. That's why your achievement today is not just yours alone—it's something to be shared and celebrated by all those who have supported you along the way.

At Te Wānanga o Aotearoa, our mission is simple: 'Kia angitu te tauira – tauira success'. Success means something different for each of you. For some, this tohu will open doors to new career opportunities. For others, it represents a pathway to empowering your whānau, marae, hapū, iwi, and wider community. No matter what success looks like to you, today is about recognising how far you've come and the possibilities that now await.

I encourage you to embrace the opportunities that come next. Continue striving for excellence, continue learning, and continue using your skills and knowledge to create positive change. This is not the end of your learning journey, but a stepping stone to whatever comes next. Education is lifelong, and we hope to see many of you return to learn with us again in the future. Wherever your path leads, know that you'll always be a valued part of our whānau.

Take pride in this moment, celebrate your success, and enjoy the recognition you have worked so hard for. We're all incredibly proud of you.

Raranga programme helps funeral director to connect with traditional cultural practices

Descended from a long line of undertakers, it's no surprise that it was tangi that brought Delano Murray (Ngāti Kurī), where he's a funeral director for Simplicity Funerals and studying Toi Paemataua Level 5 in raranga with Te Wānanga o Aotearoa.

"I'm a fourth generation undertaker and over the years we've moved from Te Hāpua to Kaitiāia to Auckland to Hamilton - where I spent most of my life - and then came down here 10 years ago because the whānau needed a lot of help in terms of education and what the options are, what do funeral homes actually do, all that transparency kind of stuff," he says.

Delano says he noticed some people using woven caskets, but they were hard to come by.

"You really need to know someone to get one of those, or pay a big price to buy it, so that kind of piqued my interest in learning how to do that.

And then I was cleaning out my friends yard and he had a lot of harakeke and I was online looking up the tikanga behind it and it came up with the raranga course so I applied."

He's loved his experience studying with Te Wānanga o Aotearoa and isn't shy about encouraging others to enrol. Rather than make things for friends and whānau, he suggests they enrol themselves and learn how.

He firmly believes he is lucky to have his kaiako to mentor and guide him.

"My kaiako skill set is above and beyond excellence and she's a role model for me every day."

With his new raranga skills, Delano intends putting them to use in the industry he knows so well. In his experience, he believes whānau can learn a lot by being involved in preparing a casket for a loved one.

"Making it together as a whānau, prepping it together, finishing everything off, transferring them in and learning the tikanga behind the whole thing. And it's also environmentally friendly and it's how we used to do things anyway."

Ultimately he'd like to build a sustainable business making caskets and showing others how to make them too.

"First, I've got to learn how to do it, that's the main thing, and then look at teaching other people so it's more economical for whānau. So, I think my main focus would be on caskets, but I'll always do kete. I love kete.," he says.

University Associate Professor committed to reo Māori journey

Sondra Bacharach is no stranger to education. She currently teaches a university philosophy programme in Aotearoa and has experienced classroom environments as a student within the American, French and German education systems.

Having been fortunate enough to experience a range of diverse cultures, Sondra values learning and embracing the culture and the language of the country that she lives in.

“It was becoming clear that I’ve lived here a long time and hadn’t made the effort to learn. I wanted to learn even though it’s scary. It’s a big commitment, and I knew I couldn’t stop once I started,” says Sondra.

After recommendations from multiple friends, Sondra said enrolling at Te Wānanga o Aotearoa was a no-brainer. After beginning her journey in 2021, she has been nothing but impressed with her experience of learning te reo Māori.

Sondra praises the quality of online resources available through Te Wānanga o Aotearoa, especially during lockdown when classroom teaching was unavailable.

“It’s been amazing. As a teacher, I know how hard it is to shift to Zoom and make it work for everybody. I feel like I’m a part of a community here, and I keep coming back for that reason.”

Her decision to study te reo Māori stemmed from a variety of reasons. She has seen her tamariki involved in Māori kaupapa through their schooling and sees the relevance in establishing a better understanding of te ao Māori as a parent and resident in Aotearoa, as well as with her mahi as an Associate Professor.

Last year, Sondra completed te reo Māori programme, He Pī ka Rere Level 3 and 4. She is grateful for the exceptional quality of learning she experienced, and acknowledges her kaiako, Rob Bromley.

“He was open with his story and allowed everyone to connect with him. It was amazing having a kaiako who would make you feel so welcome in the classroom.”

To further her mātauranga Māori, Sondra is now studying Te Whāinga o te Ao Tikanga at Te Wānanga o Aotearoa. Still, she is adamant about continuing her reo Māori journey.

“I have to go all the way until the end. You can’t stop learning a language until you are fluent; that’s my theory.”

Festival affirms why tauira champions te reo Māori for her whānau

In early August, Te Wānanga o Aotearoa tauira, Annetia Tautuku was privileged to travel with an ope from New Plymouth to attend Toitū te Reo in Heretaunga (Hastings).

Annetia is currently studying Te Pinakitanga ki te Reo Kairangi at Ngāmotu campus in New Plymouth and travelled with her fellow tauira and kaiako to attend the world's first Māori language festival.

“At Toitū Te Reo, we heard speakers talk about all sorts of things. Quality was a was a huge part of what I took away from it. Quality in what you do and remaining in something until you reach a tohunga level, like an expert. Another huge thing I took away from it was strategies and tools that I can implement in my everyday life within my own whare, within my own whānau to revitalise te reo Māori and ahurea Māori.”

Celebrating language, culture, and the identity of Māori and wider Aotearoa, Toitū Te Reo was held over 2 days at Toitōi Hawke's Bay Arts & Events Centre. Organised by reo advocate, Jeremy 'Tātare' MacLeod, the event was a resounding success, bringing together thousands of people passionate about reo Māori.

Prior to enrolling with Te Wānanga o Aotearoa, Annetia was fortunate enough to have had her own love for te reo Māori encouraged and nurtured by other teachers while enrolled in Te Tohu Paetahi at Waikato University.

“They (teachers) sowed into me my love of te reo Māori, te ao Māori, and te ahurea Māori. I inspired my husband to come back to his Māori culture and he is currently on his journey to learn our reo. Then last year, I enrolled in Whangārei to help support him on his reo journey in He Pī Ka Pao.”

Annetia and her husband James have a goal for themselves and their whānau to have an unshakable foundation for their Māori culture and to help revitalise their reo.

“Within my own whānau, I've achieved the first step towards our Māori culture. An unexpected thing that has occurred in my whānau whanui, is the normalisation of te reo Māori. I have elders within my whānau who have commented that they've picked up a lot in the last 6 months alone. And where they may never speak reo Māori themselves, they've found that they are coming to understand more, which is beautiful.”

Balancing life and study can be a challenge, but the support of her kaiako and other kaimahi at Te Wānanga o Aotearoa has helped her through.

“The staff are wonderful people. You know, they're all whānau members themselves. They understand the pressure of having to balance your study and your life, and they're always very understanding and considerate of us mātua (parents), in terms of our priorities and how we need to work in order to be able to study.”

The personal growth and development during her journey will keep Annetia learning her reo and encouraging others to do the same.

“My biggest learning is the little nuggets of gold that you get in between and during lessons, and they may not have necessarily been written into the lesson plan, but those little nuggets are really eye opening. Do it. But be prepared. It will challenge you. It will push you, but it is worth it.”
